

The model answer provided was created simply to give an example of what a good executive summary presentation could look like. Your answers and presentation may look very different and have different recommendations (based on when you complete this task).

The key is that you do some research to find out what the latest trends in HR are and how you can use some of these trends to solve Utopia's problems. The presentation should be short, clear and concise. Recording yourself presenting these slides should take no more than 5 minutes. Within these 5 minutes, you should explain why you have given the recommendations that you chose. Furthermore, based on your research, you should use some evidence, e.g. statistics from reports, to justify your recommendations.

The final slide in the model answer gives an example evidence slide, which you could use to help your explanations during the presentation. This slide in the model answer is just an example; if you do include evidence for your submission, make sure that you record the source of the statistics.
